

Brief outline of the “old” doctoral training programme (commenced prior to September 2016)

In the doctoral training commenced before September 2016 the training period is three years (six semesters) and the student has to complete 180 credits (in set proportions) to be granted an absolutorium. Doctoral training may also be completed by individual preparation.

More information is available by clicking on the “old” Doctoral Regulations (for students who started their training before September 2016) and the annexes under the menu item “Rules and fees”.
